Tukufu Zuberi, Ph.D.

BIOGRAPHICAL SUMMARY

Dr. Tukufu Zuberi is the Lasry Family Professor of Race Relations, and Professor of Sociology and Africana Studies at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Zuberi's vision is dedicated to education.

Dr. Zuberi's research has focuses on Sociology, History, Race, African and African Diaspora populations. He has been a visiting Professor at Makerere University in Kampala, Uganda, the University of Dar es Salaam in Tanzania, the Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais (UFMG) in Belo Horizonte, MG, Brazil, the Universidade de Brasilia (UnB) in Brasilia, Brazil, and the Universidade Federal da Bahia (UFBa). He was the founding Director of the Center for Africana Studies (2002-2008). He served as the Chair of the Department of Sociology at the University of Pennsylvania (2007-2013). His other administrative positions include being Chair of the Graduate Group in Demography, the Director of the African Studies Program, the Director of the Afro-American Studies Program, and Faculty Associate Director of the Center for Africana Studies.

Dr. Zuberi is the author of Swing Low, Sweet Chariot: The Mortality Cost of Colonizing Liberia in the Nineteenth-Century, published by the University of Chicago Press in 1995; Thicker than Blood: How Racial Statistics Lie, published by the University of Minnesota Press in 2001; Más espeso que la sangre: la mentira del análisis estadístico según teorías biológicas de la raza, published by Universidad Nacional de Colombia, in Bogotá in 2013; and Africa Independence: How Africa Shapes the World, published by Rowman & Littlefield Publishers in 2015. He is the series editor of the "General Demography of Africa" (a multi-volume series). He has written more than 60 scholarly articles, and edited or co-edited eight volumes. These edited volumes include White Logic, White Methods: Racism and Methodology (with Eduardo Bonilla-Silva) that was awarded the Oliver Cromwell Cox Book Award by the American Sociological Association. Professor Zuberi is currently completing a book on the Demography of Race.

Dr. Zuberi is the writer and producer of African Independence, a feature-length documentary film that highlights the birth, realization, and problems confronted by the movement to win independence in Africa. African Independence was selected and featured at over a dozen film festivals, and was the recipient of Best Director at the San Diego Black Film Festival, Best Director at the People Film Festival, Best Documentary at the San Diego Black Film Festival, Best African Film at the San Francisco Black Film Festival, and the Leigh Whipper Gold Award at the Philadelphia International Film Festival & Market. He is currently editing a feature-length documentary on the history of ancient Ghana, Mali, and Songhay (filmed in 2012). And, he in production of a documentary on the Demographic of Racial Marginalization.

Dr. Zuberi is the curator of several exhibitions. He curated Tides of Freedom: African Presence on the Delaware at the Independence Seaport Museum (Premiered in May 2013). Using four key moments in Philadelphia's history representing the themes of Enslavement, Emancipation, Jim Crow, and Civil Rights, Tides of Freedom urges visitors both to bear witness to a story central to Philadelphia and American history, and to think about the meaning of "freedom" both historically and in today's world. His exhibition, Black Bodies in Propaganda: The Art of the War Poster premiered at the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology in June 2013. Black Bodies in Propaganda presents 33 posters from Dr. Zuberi's private collection; most of these posters target Africans and African-American civilians, in times of war. These carefully designed works of art were aimed at mobilizing people of color in war efforts, even as they faced oppression and injustice in their homelands. The posters reveal changing messages on race and politics through propaganda from the American Civil War to the African Independence movement in this innovative, world-premiere exhibition. The Black Bodies in Propaganda exhibit was also presented at the Northwest African American Museum in Seattle, Washington (2016), and at the Thomas Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art, Tulsa, Oklahoma (2017). Professor Zuberi is curating the redesign of the Penn Museum Africa Gallery (opening in 2018).

From 2003 to 2014, Dr. Zuberi was a host of the hit Public Broadcasting System (PBS) series History Detectives. The History Detectives regularly presented the social history of American culture to the public. In 2014, Dr. Zuberi returned as host and co-producer of the summer PBS series History Detectives: Special Investigations.

Born Antonio McDaniel to Willie and Annie McDaniel, and raised in the housing projects of "Tassafaronga" in Oakland, California, he later embraced the name Tukufu Zuberi - Swahili for "beyond praise" and "strength." He took the name because of a desire to make and have a connection with an important period in which the social movements were challenging what it means to be a human being.

Lincoln Oath

Aired: Season 10, Episode 4

The Place: Springfield, IL

The Case: History Detectives host Tukufu Zuberi investigates a note apparently signed by Abraham Lincoln.

Woolworth Sign

Aired: Season 10, Episode 5

The Place: Winston-Salem, NC

The Case: History Detectives host Tukufu Zuberi find out whether two F.W. Woolworth Co. signs were part of the scene in an early victory for Civil Rights.

Transistor Radio

Aired: Season 10, Episode 7

The Place: Los Angeles, CA

The Case: History Detectives host Tukufu Zuberi finds out whether a man has the oldest transistor radio in existence.

Our Colored Heroes

Aired: Season 10, Episode 7

The Place: Philadelphia, PA and Arlington, VA; New York City and Washington D.C

The Case: Host Tukufu Zuberi switched roles for this story and brought a question of his own to History Detectives. Tukufu collects posters featuring African Americans in combat. One in particular intrigues him. Titled Our Colored Heroes, the poster tells an incredible World War I story. A raiding party of more than 20 Germans attacked two African American doughboys on sentry duty. The poster quotes General Pershing who praises the two colored sentries who 'continued fighting after receiving wounds and despite the use of grenades by a superior force.' Did all of this actually happen? And why was this poster made? Tukufu, along with fellow History Detectives host Elyse Luray track down the truth, and call on the insight of U.S. Senator Charles Schumer to answer Tukufu's question.

Carson Family Secrets

Aired: Season 10, Episode 8

The Place: Santa Fe and Taos, New Mexico

Tukufu Zuberi, Ph.D.

The Case: History Detectives host Tukufu Zuberi travels to New Mexico to find out more about a Kit Carson biography that may be more than meets the eye.

Season Nine

Spanish Civil War Eulogy

Aired: Season 9, Episode 2

The Place: New York City, Florida and Massachusetts

The Case: “What can this faded document tell about a US volunteer fighting in another country’s civil war?”

Lindberg-Sikorsky Fabric

Aired: Season 9, Episode 4

The Place: Connecticut

The Case: “How do the signatures on this patch of fabric connect Charles Lindbergh to another first in flight?”

Teddy Roosevelt War Club

Aired: Season 9, Episode 5

The Place: Manhattan, Vermont

The Case: “What could this strange object have to do with Teddy Roosevelt and his run for third term presidency?”

Japanese Carved Cane

Aired: Season 9, Episode 6

The Place: California

The Case: “What can the message on this cane expose about life behind barbed wire in World War II America?”

Hot Town Poster

Aired: Season 9, Episode 7 (Originally aired Season 8, Episode 8)

The Place: New York and Chicago

The Case: “The words and images on this poster draw battle lines. We see a photo of what looks like a stern police officer, a clenched fist, and the wording: “Hot Town – Pigs in the Streets...But the streets belong to the people! Dig it?” Who made this poster and why?”

Florida Map

Aired: Season 9, Episode 8

The Place: Florida, Washington D.C

The Case: “How did this faded map help unlock the riches of the New World?”

Tukufu Zuberi, Ph.D.

Exercise Records

Aired: Season 9, Episode 9

The Place: Texas and Michigan

The Case: “What role did these records play in the sculpting of America’s fixation with fitness?”

Season Eight

Satelloon

Aired: Season 8, Episode 1

The Place: Maryland and New Jersey

The Case: “An exchange between two HAM radio operators began our search for the story behind a shiny piece of material...”

Transatlantic Cable

Aired: Season 8, Episode 3

The Place: Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Jersey

The Case: While vacationing in Cape Cod, a History Detectives fan from Maine found what looked like a length of old, twisted rope. Closer inspection revealed a curious coil of wire cables covered in thick fabric. He knows that in the 1800’s communication cables stretched from New England to Europe; so our viewer wonders if he’s found a piece of one of the first transatlantic cables that connected the United States to Europe.

Duke Ellington Plates

Aired: Season 7, Episode 11

Repeated: Season 8, Episode 5

The Place: Brooklyn, New York

The Case: 1941, Manhattan bustles, and New York City's newest subway line - the "A" train - is moving people in more ways than one. A new instrumental "Take the 'A' Train," rolls up the charts and will become the signature song of pianist Edward Kennedy Ellington. The song will bring financial success to a pioneering music publishing venture, owned by Duke Ellington.

Diana

Aired: Season 8, Episode 6

The Place: California, Washington, D.C., and New York

The Case: Scouring Manhattan bookstores, our contributor came across the 250-page life story of a woman named Diana Fredericks.

Hot Town Poster

Aired: Season 8, Episode 8

The Place: New York and Chicago

The Case: The words and images on this poster draw battle lines. We see a photo of what looks like a stern police officer, a clenched fist, and the wording: “Hot Town – Pigs in the Streets...But the streets belong to the people! Dig it?” Who made this poster and why?

Jackie Robinson Scorecard

Tukufu Zuberi, Ph.D.

Aired: Season 8, Episode 9

The Place: Pittsburgh, PA and Cooperstown, NY

The Case: Does a History Detectives fan hold a piece of baseball history? In a 1940's Pittsburgh Pirates program, he found a scorecard for a game between two unusual teams: the Majors' All Stars and Robinson's All Stars.

WB Cartoons

Premiered: Season 8, Episode 10

The Place: California

Booth Letters

Premiered: Season 7, Episode 703

The Place: Nashville, Tennessee & Washington, DC

The Case: Investigates a letter that indicates that thirty years before John Wilkes Booth assassinated Abraham Lincoln, Booth's father threatened to kill another sitting president, Andrew Jackson.

Lubin Photos

Premiered: Season 7, Episode 704

The Place: Branford, Florida

The Case: Examines century old photos that may have captured the dawn of American movie-making – nearly 3000 miles from Hollywood.

Fillmore Pardon

Premiered: Season 7, Episode 706

The Place: Portland, Oregon

The Case: By the middle of the 19th century, a vast new territory from New Mexico all the way to California beckoned settlers and homesteaders. But as their wagon trains rumbled west from Missouri, along major arteries such as the Santa Fe Trail, they cut through the heart of Indian country and came under frequent attack.

Birthplace of HIP HOP

Premiered: Season 6, Episode 6011

Repeated: Season 7, Episode 707

The Place: New York City

The Case: A hip hop enthusiast from New York City has always heard that 1520

Tukufu Zuberi, Ph.D.

Sedgwick Avenue in the Bronx is the birthplace of hip hop.

Liberia Letters

Premiered: Season 7, Episode 708

The Place: Lynchburg, South Carolina

The Case: Traces one freed man's dream to return to Africa. By the early 19th century, the United States was home to increasing numbers of free blacks. In some places, much of the white establishment considered their status with growing alarm. In the south, where the slave system was most entrenched, free blacks were considered a threat to the status quo. Hostility and even violence against free blacks were common.

Japanese Balloons

Premiered: Season 6, Episode 603

Repeated: Season 7, Episode 708

The Place: Austin, TX and Washington, D.C.

The Case: The granddaughter of a World War II veteran from Austin, Texas has a wartime memento with a note claiming it is a piece of Japanese balloon that floated across the Pacific Ocean in 1945.

The Place: Rochester, New York

THE CASE: Investigates an inventor's dream of bringing the US and Europe closer together.

Duke Ellington Plates

Premiered: Season 7, Episode 711

The Place: Brooklyn, New York

The Case: 1941, Manhattan bustles, and New York City's newest subway line - the "A" train - is moving people in more ways than one. A new instrumental "Take the 'A' Train," rolls up the charts and will become the signature song of pianist Edward Kennedy Ellington. The song will bring financial success to a pioneering music publishing venture, owned by Duke Ellington.

Kahlil Gibran Painting

Premiered: Season 6, Episode 609

Repeated: Season 7, Episode 712

The Place: Savannah, GA and New York City

The Case: A contributor from Overland Park, KS has an unsigned oil portrait of his grandfather, Najib Musa Diab, that he believes was painted by the Lebanese-American poet Kahlil Gibran, author of The Prophet.

Season Six

1856 Moran Tale

Tukufu Zuberi, Ph.D.

Premiered: Season 6, Episode 601

The Place: Ithaca and New York City

The Case: The tattered pages of an 1856 anonymously authored book titled “Female Life Among the Mormons” claim to be the personal memoirs of a New York woman who married a Mormon elder at a time when polygamy was openly practiced yet characterized by some abolitionists as the “enslavement of white women.”

Seth Eastman Painting
